Almost Makes Me Wish I Had Kids

This CD is exactly the kind of music i would put on the radio for my kids if I had any. Hayes Greenfield essentially took old classics like "she's coming 'round the mountain", set them to some great jazz riffs, and altered the words slightly so that all the songs have a great sustainable message. In the age of Barney and all that other "get in your head so you never stop singing it" children's music, this is some great jazz i wouldn't mind going through my head on repeat (at least for a while) Plus, while most children's music has a good message - the is the first one I know of that centers on sustainability in specific. Rock on Hayes!
